GOOGLE INDIA PARTNERS WITH CBSE TO GIVE EDUCATION A NEW BOOST

Google India announced a partnership with the Central Board of Secondary Education (CBSE) at the sixth edition of Google for India. Google.org has also announced a $1 million grant to Kaivalya Education Foundation as part of the Distance Learning Fund. This would enable it, along with the Central Square Foundation and the TeacherApp, to train 700,000 teachers in India to deliver virtual education for students through TV and radio where smartphones are not available. This is apart from the $10 billion fund announced by the search giant on Monday to speed up India's digital economy. The Google for India Digitization Fund, will focus on areas important to India's digitisation, including internet access in local languages, building new products and services. Source: ET Tech
